Principle

Protection of your personal data matters to me. This is why your personal data will be handled confidentially and in conformity with the statutory data protection regulations, as well as this privacy policy.

Data collection

Personal data are only collected and processed by me, if they are required for establishing or amending the legal relationship (inventory data). No personal data are collected in connection with the use of my web pages (usage data).

Data processing on this website

I collect and automatically store information in log files that your browser automatically transmits to me. Such information consists of the type and version of the browser used, of the operating system used, as well as of the referring URL and time of the server request. These data cannot be assigned to a particular person. No merging of these data with other data sources takes place.

Right to object and right to information

You are at any time entitled to ask for information free of charge about the personal data stored by me, as well as about their origin and recipients and the purpose of data processing and to apply for correction, blocking or deletion of such data. If you have any questions in this regard, please send an e-mail to jk@uebersetzungen-kreienbaum.de or use the contact data stated in the imprint.

Your rights as a user

Right to obtain confirmation

Every party concerned is entitled to obtain confirmation as to whether or not personal data are processed about him/her.

Right to obtain information (Art. 15 DSGVO)

Every party concerned is entitled to obtain information on the personal data stored about him/her and to obtain a copy of such information.

Right to rectify (Art. 16 DSGVO)

Every party concerned is entitled to ask the person being responsible for data protection to immediately rectify any incorrect personal data about him/her.

Right to erasure and to be forgotten (Art. 17 DSGVO)

Every party concerned is entitled to ask for immediate erasure of the personal data stored about him/her, if any of the legal reasons applies and processing is not required.

Right to restriction of processing (Art. 18 DSGVO)

Every party concerned is entitled to ask for a restriction of processing, if one of the legally specified reasons applies.

Right to data portability (Art. 20 DSGVO)

Every party concerned is entitled to receive the personal data stored about him/her and provided to a person responsible, in a structured, current and machine-readable format and to transmit such data to another person responsible without impediment, provided that the processing is based on the consent according to Art. 6(1) lit. a DSGVO or Art. 9 (2) lit. a DSGVO or on an agreement or contract pursuant to Art. 6 (1) lit. b DSGVO and that the processing is carried out by means of automated procedures, unless processing is required for performing a task in the public interest or for exercising official authority vested in the person responsible.

Furthermore, the person concerned, when exercising his/her right to data portability according to Art. 20 (1) DSGVO, is entitled to apply for direct transmission of the personal data from one person responsible to another person responsible, as far as this is technically feasible and provided that this does not affect the rights and freedoms of any other persons.

Right to revocation of a consent granted pursuant to data privacy regulations (Art. 13 DSGVO)

Every person concerned is entitled to revoke a consent granted with regard to processing of personal data at any time, if processing is based on Art. 6 (1) lit. a or Art. 9 (2) lit. a, without affecting the lawfulness of processing made until revocation on the basis of the consent.

Right of appeal (Art. 21 DSGVO)

Every person concerned is entitled to file an objection against processing of the personal data stored about him/her that is carried out on the basis of Art. 6 (1) lit. e or f DSGVO, for reasons resulting from his/her particular situation.

Period of time of storage of personal data

The relevant criterion for the period of storage of personal data is the period of safekeeping legally prescribed from time to time. Once this period is expired, the corresponding data are routinely deleted, as far as they are no longer required for initiating or fulfilling a contract.

Third-party content

Content of third parties may also be incorporated on the pages of my website. As a rule, cookies are stored on the user's computer by the providers of such content. You can prevent this by selecting the appropriate settings of your browser, which may, however, render the correct display of contents impossible.

In addition, many (third-party) providers store the IP address of the users, so as to be able to send the corresponding content to the user's browser. Unfortunately, I have no influence on the use of the IP address at the (third-party) provider.
